Yesterday: The Good Times When

Foreword

That yesterdays at A.H.S. were "the good times when we were so unhappy" is only too apparent to those who have spent one, two or three years here. The minor crises which faced us each day were the essence of our unhappiness. Be it the boredom of a lecture, the drudgery of practice, fear of a quiz or irritation at a silent phone, each was an integral part of our good times. It was surprising how often those very facets of life at A.H.S. which were most painful later proved to be most valuable—the big responsibility, the all-night term paper, the bad grade, the argument. Soon these day-to-day crises will fall into perspective (or so we are told) and the memory of "good times" will remain.

But, really, few words need be written here since to each the theme represents a different set of yesterdays. Only let the WAKE 1966 be a reminder of how our yesterdays were "the good times when we were so unhappy."

THE 1966 WAKE STAFF

We Were So Unhappy.

More funds are needed to complete the concession stand and press box.

Wake's Dedication

Picture the football team on a hot August day laying sod on the recently levelled field.

Picture student resignation to the inevitable Penny Day every Wednesday, every week, every month, all year.

Picture the big blue mums sold at the Turkey Bowl game to add to the stadium fund.

Picture fifteen levi-clad girls collecting crumpled programs and empty bottles from under the bleachers.

Picture the partially completed brick building at the top of the hill with half a dozen busy Boosters Club parents running a successful concession stand.

Picture the worried look on Coach Laramore's face as he confers with Cmdr. Bowler and Mr. Corbett to decide whether it will be safe to play on the turf after a heavy rain.

Try to picture the stadium without John Hammond.

Focus these pictures and see Panther Stadium, dream turned reality. A.H.S.'s stadium, with a seating capacity of 5,500 and bright lights for night games, could not have been without the time, the money, and the effort of many people.

Before the stadium could be built, $5,000 had to be found. This did not deter Cmdr. Bowler and the Adult Booster Club who conceived the idea of a stadium for the school. They raised $6,000 to get the stadium project started. Parents ran concession stands at the football and basketball games; they printed football and basketball yearbooks; and they made an arrangement to receive a percentage of the profit from the sale of tickets to Sailors' football games. The student Booster Club also contributed to the stadium fund by selling candy, pennants and stickers and by maintaining that glorious A.H.S. tradition—Penny Day. All in all $40,000 has been obtained with an estimated $36,000 still to be raised.

Yet money alone could not build the stadium; it took the time and effort of interested citizens. During the hot summer months many a day found students and adults alike laying sod on the field, and those not laying sod were canvassing door to door to raise more money. In the early fall with the stadium completed, John Hammond could be seen almost every afternoon fussing over the field: watering and liming and cutting. And other students interested in keeping Panther Stadium beautiful devoted afternoons to cleaning-up the grounds.

To everyone of these people, everyone who had a part in the fulfillment of the Panther Stadium dream, the staff of Wake 1966 dedicates this book.

The A.H.S. Panther Marching Band performs in its new home.

Students' enthusiasm and contributions helped build Panther Stadium.

In the past three years enrollment at Annapolis High School has grown from 1400 to 2200. This large increase in the number of students at A.H.S. was the primary problem confronting Mr. Fowble and the administration in 1965-66. From this one problem arose many of the situations with which the administration has dealt this year.

To maintain a close student-teacher relationship, it became necessary for every individual to exert a little more time and effort. Members of the faculty and administration were urged to become better acquainted with their students as well as with one another.

The addition of two guidance counselors, Mrs. Malone and Mr. Hogsten, made it possible for each class to have a counselor concerned solely with the problems of its members and the class as a whole.

Annapolis was the only high school in the county to use IBM report cards. Teachers decided upon their use last year to help lessen the clerical work necessary at the end of each six weeks.

The growing student body caused not only these problems of an academic nature, but also brought forth the question of how to deal with the expanded amount of extracurricular activities. As various organizations worked to increase their programs and new clubs were formed, the administration added better correlation and publicity of activities by instituting a school calendar.

When any establishment grows large, communication and movement also present new problems. These problems were especially evident this year at A.H.S. The linking of the public address systems in all three buildings was aimed at facilitating communication. 2,200 people caused traffic difficulties. However, the Traffic Patterns Committee's plan and the co-operation between the administration and Traffic Squad helped correct this aspect of the overall population problem. There was, in addition, the problem of making sure the right people were in the right place at the right time. This included keeping even non-students off the A.H.S. campus. While several solutions were proposed, including the use of I.D. tags, no definite measure was enacted beyond increased supervision and interest on the part of the faculty and administration.

The past three years of growth and expansion have continually challenged Annapolis High School. It has been the class of '66, which came in when the new character of the school began to emerge, that by its attitude of responsibility and support, has aided the administration.

At mid-year the library was re-organized.

At lunchtime some students resorted to the library to finish research.

Library

In keeping with the changes throughout the school, the library initiated a few new ideas to compliment the old rules and procedures. The collection of paper-back books started last year was expanded, fines were abolished and any student who had lost a book was asked to replace it rather than pay for it. In these ways it was hoped that the shortage of books would begin to be corrected.

In addition, during mid-year exams the library was reorganized and books were checked for correct markings.

The librarians are Mrs. Dorothy Laramore, who received her B.A. from Shepherd College and her Masters in Library Science from Syracuse University, and Mrs. Lucille Lebelle, who received her B.A. from Emory University.

In late afternoon Miss Ageloff prepares for another day with George Eliot and Silas Marner.

How to teach the student to be able to say well what he means was the writing problem that the A.H.S. English Department once again this year set out to solve. Several sophomore and senior classes were introduced to Better Paragraphs, a book used by University of Maryland freshmen. A nifty little chart was included in the book, enabling the student to give his paragraph a quick check for unity, coherence, and consistency. Mr. Morris and Miss Dinkins used a new overhead projector to teach writing techniques by breaking down paragraphs and examining them in detail. Mr. Atwell approached the problem still differently. He had his students follow a formula for writing sentences as a working use of the "new grammar."

For the second year Annapolis was a test high school for the Critical Reading program. Two classes of seniors who already knew fairly well how to express themselves were given a chance to learn how to form opinions worth expressing. Using a college text, Critical Reading, they were taught by Mrs. McCabe to examine everything they read for the writer's "tricks of the trade" before accepting an idea. Mrs. McCabe frequently assigned critical essays so that the students had a chance to put into practice what they had learned.

Putting into practice what they had learned, two Speech and Dramatics classes produced plays. One, The Devil and Daniel Webster, was directed by Mrs. Travis and the other, Pyramus and Thisbe, by Mrs. McCabe. Both were unqualified successes on the A.H.S. stage.

The book store, opened by Mrs. McCabe last year, was also a success as it expanded to meet the growing demands of students and teachers for inexpensive books.

Social Studies

Intensification. Changed emphasis. These two words summarize the Social Studies Department's approach to the problem of how to best challenge the A.H.S. student.

In 1961 when Advanced Placement American History and in 1963 when Advanced Placement Modern European History were added to the curriculum, intensification was the object. This year with Mrs. Alexander carrying two teaching assignments in Advanced American History and with Modern European History's resumption after a one year lapse, these programs seem to be successfully offering able students a chance to "stretch their minds." An increased supply of supplementary material has helped teachers of other social studies classes to also intensify their course of study.

Recently, when courses were re-organized, the object was a change of emphasis. Believing that students find more challenge in what seems relevant to their own world, teachers of American History will now place more emphasis on the U.S. after 1865. P.O.D. teachers will emphasize the background to today's international situation, including economic and political sysems and international relations.

Foreign Languages

"Little does she know that 50,000 volts will soon pulse through her ear drums."

Perhaps preparing for the expansion of the Foreign Language Department that will be necessitated in 1968 by the new requirement of three years of a language for graduation with a college-preparatory diploma, the Language Department has this year expanded.

Mrs. Taulbee's Latin I and II classes received a new set of books, Latin for Americans—a fortunate occurance for the second year students since there is nothing deadlier than a poor Latin text. While the new first year book contained a unique approach to the study of Latin nouns, the second year volumne was a great improvement with its clear presentation of grammar.

Mrs. Bushnell joined the Spanish Department this year, replacing Miss Nock. By mid-year she and Mr. Murray had a new language laboratory with which to work. This lab is larger, and the equipment more sensitive, than the old set-up in Mrs. Asher's classroom. This year Miss Carmichael's French students also use the lab.

The French Department underwent the greatest amount of change of the three language departments. The French IV literature curriculum was expanded to include Antoine de Saint-Exupèry's delightful book, Le Petit Prince. In addition the students acted out, in part, Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme by Molière. The French III and IV students had a chance to test their ability to understand spoken French when they took a trip to Washington to see La Comedie Francaise perform another Moliére play, L'Avare. The French IV class, taught by Mrs. Asher, last year's president of the Maryland Modern Languages Association and this year's first vice-president—found their last year of French at A.H.S., with its emphasis on the literature of the seventeenth and nineteenth centuries, to be by far the most exciting.

Mathematics

In our technological world mathematics has assumed an increasingly important role. At A.H.S. every student had an opportunity to take the type of mathematics that best suited his post-graduation plans.

Teachers found that they had more difficulty in teaching than students had in learning when the concepts of modern math were merged into the various math courses. These new concepts emphasized the "why" as well as the traditional "how."

This modernization also made available to high school students courses which in previous years were not taught until the freshman or sophomore years of college. For example, analytic geometry and calculus were offered to advanced seniors at Annapolis as Math V. Another aspect of the new math was the fusion of topics to stress theory. For instance, plane geometry and solid geometry, which were taught as separate subjects over a span of one-and-a-half years, now have been fused into a one year course with increased emphasis on vectors, set theory mathematical logic, coordinate geometry and trigonometry.

If you can know why $2+3=3+2$, you might have a good start in the world of mathematics.

Science

Advanced Chemistry.

Mrs. Langdon prepares a slide.

The Science Department has in recent years adopted new programs to place the student closer to the center of the learning process. Students were given a greater degree of responsibility for planning, making choices, and investigating. The teacher challenged, probed, directed, interpreted and even goaded his students in order to develop purposiveness, self-direction, and disciplined powers of thought in science.

Three years ago, BSCS was introduced into the science program. Teams of 3 or 4 students learned biology first hand by experimenting extensively and forming their own conclusions rather than accepting the opinion of a text. Courses employing these same methods are now available to college students majoring in science.

Also initiated in 1963 was the college-level advanced physics course which, since its inception, has been taught by Mr. Schweizer, an associate professor at the Naval Academy. The twelve boys and four girls who took the course proclaimed that they were treated "almost like equals . . . like human beings." The informal atmosphere and the respect accorded the students by the teacher were quite conducive to individual understanding of physical theory. Those famous "play days" in advanced physics could just as well have been termed "extra-learning days."

Completely new this year was the course in advanced chemistry. Annapolis was one of four high schools in the county to offer this course of one semester quantitative analysis and one of qualitative. Here again the students, nine boys and three intrepid girls, learned largely from their experimentations.

Commercial

The Commercial Department has taken on a new, modern look.

Added to the familiar frustrations of beginning typing, stenography, and bookkeeping, commercial students this year faced Clerical Practice I. It aimed at preparing students for clerical occupations and will be followed by the introduction of Clerical Practice II next year. The course of study included filing, telephone techniques, automation, business psychology, office procedures and office machines.

Students who had enrolled in Office Practice were the first to use the IBM Selectric typewriters, voice transcribers, a Burrows Bookkeeping machine, new filing cabinets, and a seemingly unending supply of new texts.

Office Practice, as the terminal course for stenographic, bookkeeping, and general business majors, tried to combine skills that had been learned in previous courses. It included filing, telephone techniques, business psychology, automation, duplicating, machine bookkeeping, machine transcription, and a six weeks' unit on charm. During the charm unit the girls study the finer points of dress, posture, figure control, hair styles, and office etiquette.

As with other departments this year, change came to the Music Department. In the performing groups change centered on the band and orchestra. The marching band increased its numbers and a point system for an award was instituted among the members of both the concert and marching bands. The orchestra, with access to the music of the Annapolis Symphony, added to its repertory as well as to its number of public performances. In the non-performing area, the music theory courses underwent definite change. The emphasis was switched from mere recognition and repetition of melodies to the comprehension of technique and theory behind musical composition.

Each year, it seems, the Art Department comes up with some new device to prove to the skeptical that creativity in the face of limited resources is not impossible. Students who thought that they had very little talent also find that something they make can be beautiful—or at least interesting. This year the Art Department teachers used colored tissue paper, made ink prints on styrofoam and people from papier mache and bottles to once again prove their point.

Frustration—"Creativity, where are you?"

Industrial Arts and Home Economics

Mr. Pinti's experienced eye appraises a student's job of planning.

The ominous sounds heard in the stair-wells of Severn Hall were only the by-products of industrial arts students working diligently on their individual projects. The students designed the articles themselves and worked on them each day under their teacher's supervision. Last year A.H.S. entries won first place in all divisions of a county Industrial Arts Exhibit. It is interesting to note that almost one-half of the first period Architectural Drawing class is composed of A.H.S. girls.

A.H.S. owes a debt of gratitude to the industrial arts teachers who often leave their basement retreat to spend many extra hours helping construct props for plays and the prom and floats for the homecoming parade.

Home Economic students were this year introduced to the basic skills that they, as future homemakers, will soon employ. Included in the curriculum were sewing, cooking and table arrangement, nutrician, child development and an introduction to home furnishings.

Physical Education

"To use the facilities so as to provide the best activity for the numbers and space we have," was Miss Nolan's realistic appraisal of the Physical Education Department's purpose.

However, the boys found the problem of facilities less acute since for the second year they occupied the Severn Hall gym while the girls had limited quarters in Maryland Hall. Though space was lacking in the old building, cockroaches were plentiful until the bug exterminators arrived. From then on, the girls claimed that they no longer were forced to share the locker room with their six-legged friends.

For the girls a diverse program of team and individual sports was offered, including field hockey, basketball, gymnastics, folk dancing, volleyball, and softball. Utilizing the talents of the senior physical education students, the teachers placed P.E. leaders in charge of certain aspects of their classes.

The boys participated in football, line soccer, wrestling, basketball, gymnastics, weight lifting and baseball, with football and basketball ranking high on their list of favorites.

Miss Nolan, Miss Vogt, and Mrs. Covert hold a summit meeting.

The Security of Seniority,

Seniors

the Burden of Responsibility

Class of 1966:

Cindy Meade, treasurer; Pixie Stevenson, vice-president; Sue Graf, secretary; Rich Wright, president; Mr. Wilkinson, class advisor.

The Senior Surprise—Even the seniors were surprised! The bright red nightshirts (which were sold along with senior pins, keys and announcements) were as much of a surprise to the seniors as to the rest of the school. Their varsatility was demonstrated by seniors Mike Corbett, Nancy Johnson, John Cannell, and Gail Grollman who modeled them at Talent Night. The purpose of these money raising projects was to finance the senior gift and to rent the Naval Academy Field House for graduation.

The elected officers of the class and Student Council were not the only seniors exhibiting leadership. Selected seniors ran the school for Senior Teach Day and on February 23, 1966 assumed the responsibility of the leadership of Annapolis for a day. Jamie Burr proved to be a witty mayor; Kurt Fredland, a "droll" Police Chief; Janice Howard, a frugal treasurer; and Judy Finn became Annapolis' first lady Fire Chief. As aldermen, Dave Roberts, the "Great Dissenter," and astute Lisa Hall completed the Annapolis High delegation.

Winners

Bob Tate, Lisa Hall, and

Alice Speicher represented A.H.S. for the 1966 Betty Crocker Homemaker Award.

Reidar Alvestad and Judy Anderegg were chosen for the Elks Leadership award.

Jamie Burr received highest honors on the Advanced Placement American History exam.

of Varied Awards.

Harold Sadler were all National Merit Semi-Finalists.

Linda Chesnik won first place in Tally-Ho's Poetry and Prose Contests.

Jane Fieseler took second place in the state division of the National French Contest.

Honoria Beard was a Finalist and Ed Johnson a semifinalist in the National Achievement Scholarship Program.

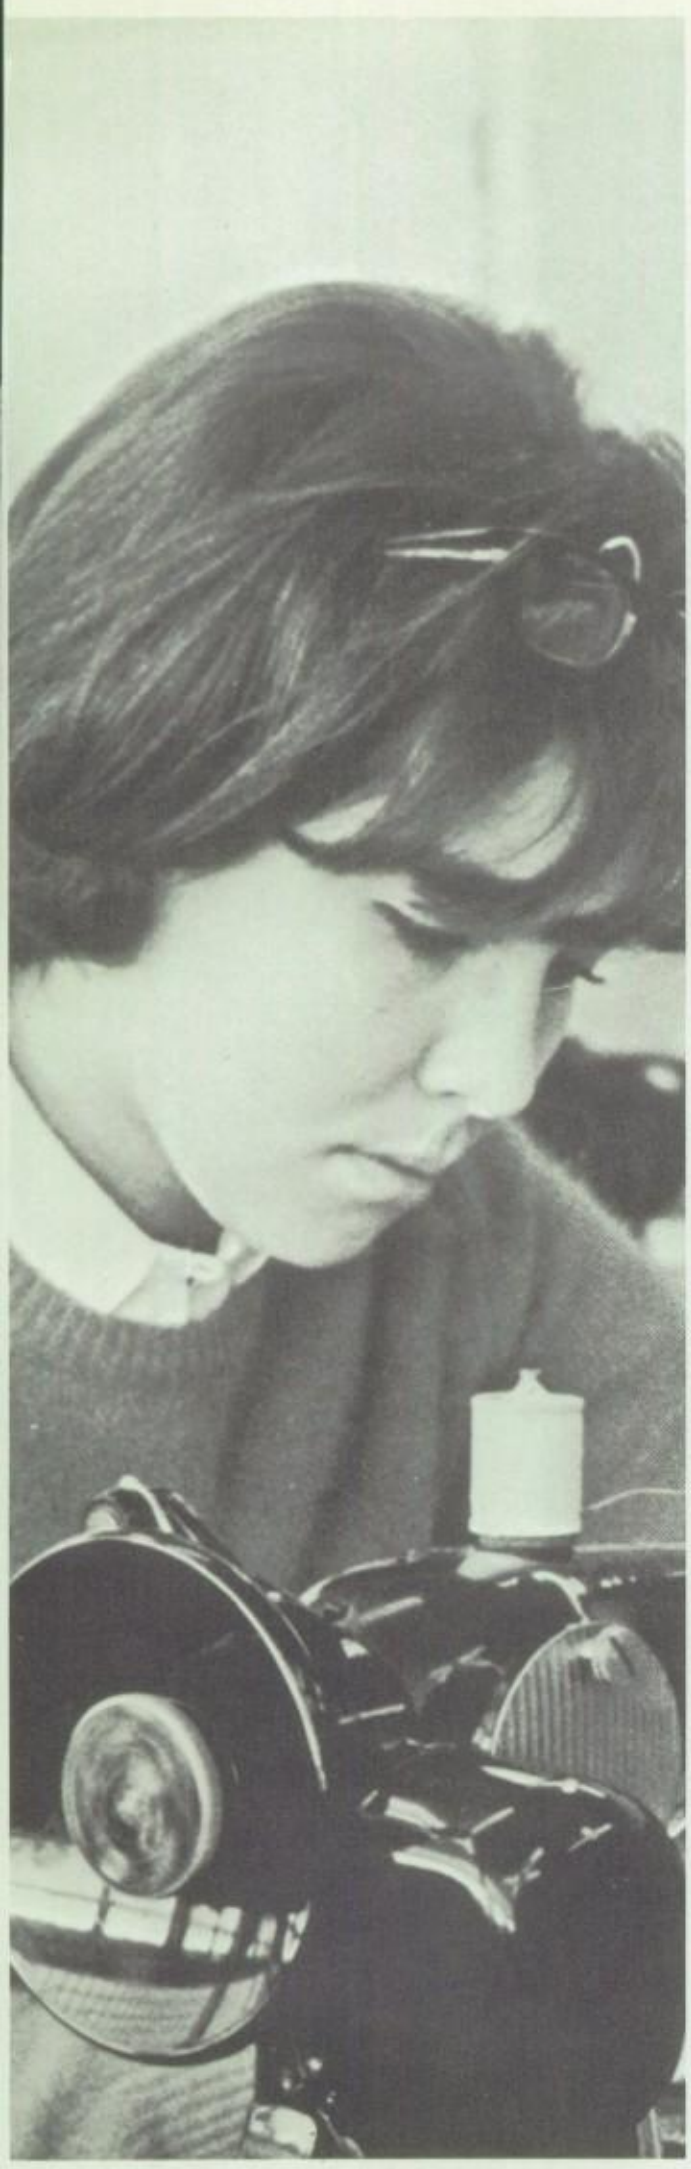
Seniors' Underlings:



Underclassmen

Nancy!
It was nice having you in English and Chemistry this year; I hope we'll be in some of the same classes next year, too. You are one of the sweetest and friendliest "lab partners" I've had. You are a wonderful person and don't forget there's more to chemistry. Have a nice summer and don't do anything I wouldn't do. Lots of luck!
See ya' next year.
Love,

Buy, buy, buy .... but with what, what, what?

The main objective of the junior class was to sponsor the Junior-Senior Prom. All their money making projects and planning centered around this dance. At A.H.S. the tradition has been bake sales. The junior class was no exception: the representatives and alternates sponsored bi-weekly bake sales. Their projects also included a dance, a car wash, the sale of coffee mugs, wrapping paper, and eggs.

The day's end.

Class of 1968

"To see the renewal of sports and enthusiasm at A.H.S. started by the class of 1968" is the dream of Sophomore Class President Gerry Hough. Already the class has taken steps to reach this goal. The extension of Clean-Up Week was largely the work of the sophomore class. Remember the "remember" campaign? That too was started by the sophomores. The "Whip it on 'em" stickers possessed by one out of every 3.3 students and wanted by the other 2.3 were sold to raise money for the Junior-Senior Prom of '67. Another successful project was the sale of 500 stickers which read "We're No. 1."

"We're No. 1" stickers appeared everywhere.

Chester Yuan, treasurer; Gerry Hough, president; Sally Arnold, secretary; Annie Pantelides, vice-president.

Class of 1969

Jerry Feldman, president; Richard Collinson, vice-president; Susan Niles, secretary; Mark Snyder, treasurer

Pushed into the current of high school life, the students of the second freshman class had to either sink or swim. Typical reactions to the new habitat ranged from "It's neat!", "There's more freedom—we aren't chaperoned at lunch.", "It's confusing when the numbering goes from odd to even on one side of the hall." to "I'm lost.". Most learned to swim.

From the mass confusion of the first days came organization. Under the leadership of Jerry Feldman, the freshmen became an integral part of A.H.S. Though small in number with 372 members they exerted enough influence to gain the position of Clerk of the Student Traffic Court. They took part in what has almost become an A.H.S. tradition—bake sales.

Yet the bonds between the ninth grade Panthers and the Hornets of the Annapolis Junior High were not completely severed. A basketball game was played in January between the two ninth grade teams.

Homecoming 1965:

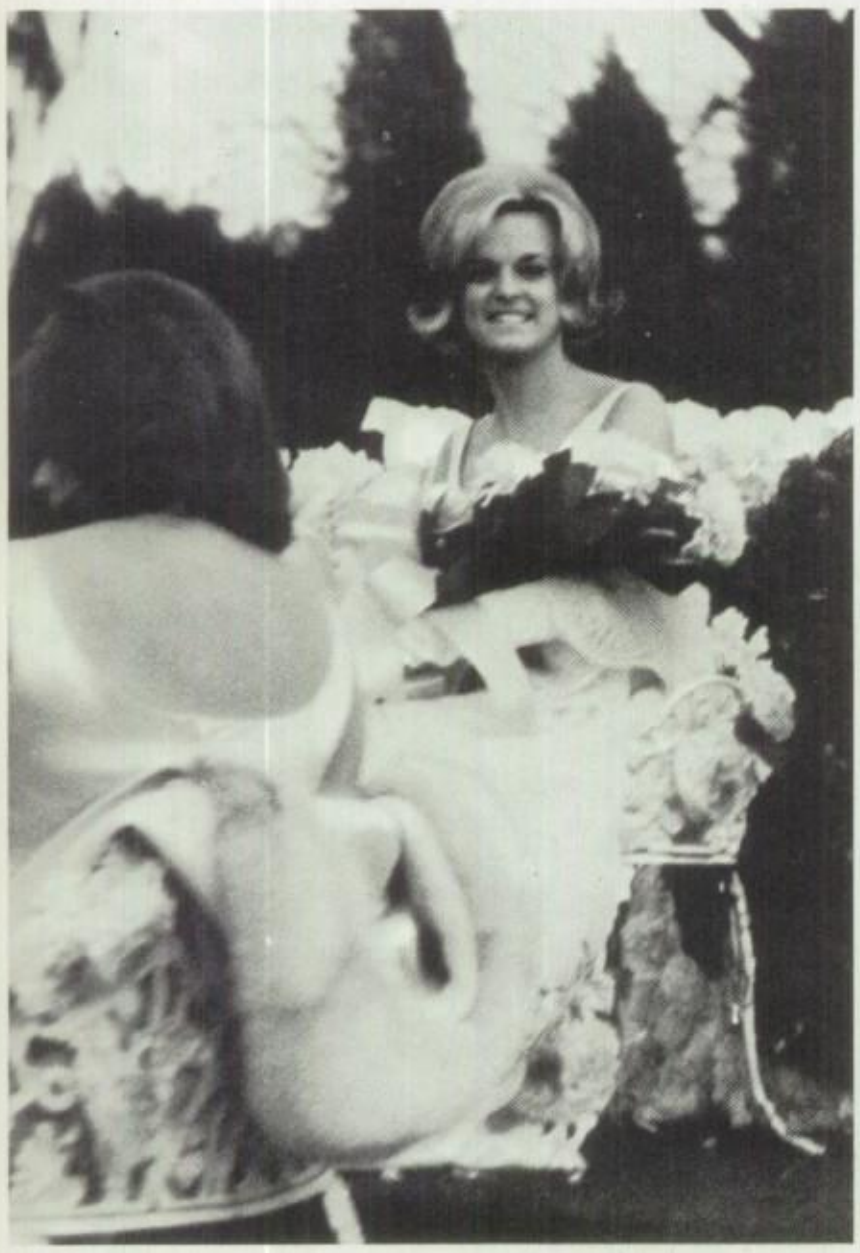
Apprehension before victory shows in the face of Sue Robertshaw.

For the seniors at A.H.S. Homecoming 1965 was the first victorious homecoming in their high school career. The Panthers beat Wicomico 19-7.

The game, however, was only the climax of a week of festivities. Four days before, a parade of hopeful, enthusiastic Panthers progressed up Main Street and out West Street at twilight. The route of the newly elected queen and her court in a float of yellow tissue roses was marked by the trail of hay left by the Dorcas Tri-Hi-Y float—one of the wildly decorated vehicles completing the motorcade. A truckload of A.H.S. griders proved themselves second only to the band in noise making ability with their single chant of "ay-OO-ah."

The next morning, a freezing Wednesday, the entire school invaded the new Panther Stadium for an assembly featuring the team, the majorettes, the cheerleaders, a bull fight, and that shoeless photographer—Mrs. McCabe.

No homecoming would be complete without a victory dance sponsored by the Girls' "A" Club. With Norman's Norts as the main attraction the dance was packed. Queen Sue Graf escorted by Dick Larrimore, Mary Gibson escorted by Charlie Schuette, Pixie Stevenson by Jim Robertshaw, Brenda Myers by Ben Paxson, and Evy Maxon by Joe Alton were re-introduced, partially for the benefit of those not-so-hardy souls who had taken to the warmth of the building before half-time.



The queen floats through town on the Booster Club's yellow roses.

Makings of the bonfire.

Hey! It's real grass!

Talent Night: Revived

The Temptations

Spectators, newspapers, participants, and the Student Council proclaimed the success of Talent Night. Ticket sales totaled six hundred dollars, two hundred dollars over the estimate. Playing to a full house, local talent presented an evening of varied entertainment. The music, which ranged from quiet folk songs and Mozart, to the blaring of bands, filled the auditorium. Comedians, silent movies, and the "Senior Surprise" also delighted the audience.

Talent Night was under the direction of Jonas Snyder, Tina Fuller, and Nick Pantelides.

QUEEN, COURT, AND ESCORTS: Jan Howard, Greg Morris, Evy Maxon, Mike Gray, Queen Pixie Stevenson, Mike Jarrell, Cindy Meade, Danny Carnevale, Robyn Means, Rick Johnson.

The AHS victory over Andover on January 29 set the pace for students and alumni who attended the junior class dance later that evening. This "physical endurance test," held to raise money for the Junior-Senior Prom, featured the Avalons.

At 10:30 the queen, Pixie Stevenson, and her court were announced. The Student Council presented Pixie with a scarab pin and each member of the court with a white orchid corsage.

The dancing then continued until 1:00 when the tired A.H.S.'ers, still filled with team enthusiasm, went home for the night.

Judy marks a "J" for juniors on Jan.

And the score goes up another notch.

Pyramus and Thisbe:

"In Amsterdam there lived a maid . . ." sings the jester preceding Pyramus and Thisbe.

"This beauteous lady is Thisbe"

Introduced by Mrs. McCabe's plea of "Please don't make paper air planes out of the programs!", the speech class' "low budget" production was a smash. Shakespeare's appearance on the stage of A.H.S. could not help but dispel prejudice against the Bard. A selection from Mozart's Quintet played by Jim Paxton, Barbara Benson, Charles Glendenning, Dick Lozinski and Harry Clark set the mood.

Ten Little Indians.

Ten people, stranded in a mansion on an island, all contact with the outside world severed, are faced with inevitable death. Each ponders the question "How and when will I die?" as their murders are announced by the breakage of a pottery Indian.

Under the direction of Mrs. Larrimore, the senior class presented Agatha Christie's Ten Little Indians. The cast was faced with the difficulty of acquiring British accents, portraying people much older than themselves and maintaining an aura of mystery through all three acts. However, "stiff upper lip" prevailed and after eight hectic weeks of rehearsal, Ten Little Indians was presented—quite successfully—on April 16 and 17.

Jonas Snyder pauses for directions from Mrs. Larrimore.

Old woman,

I hope you don't mind your nickname 'cause I think it's very cute. - it fits you just right! I don't really no what to say, Waney, except that I don't know what I would have done without you this year. You've really been an understanding friend. (especially when I got you all wet!!!!) I'm sure glad you don't go to Sherwood because A.H.S needs more people like you. I'm depending on you ~~—~~ to keep up the spirit and to watch over Pickle next year. - Don't worry about the sports program next year I'm sure it will be good if the Big Boss is in charge. I don't want you to have any injuries next year, O.K? you are to valuable and don't say you're not because ~~—~~ I have inside proof on all my statements. Just remember that old woman! I guess I better stop writing cause I'm running out of space. Good luck next year in school and especially in sports. I'll always remember those home runs you hit in softball and how I wished that I could. - I guess some people are just lucky.

See you,

The largest and most influential student organization at Annapolis High School is the Student Council. This fact gave the Council its responsibility for attacking two mammoth problems in 1965-1966: student apathy and faculty communication between students, Student Council, and faculty.

Headed by Reidar Alvestad and under the experienced direction of Mrs. Alexander, who has worked with the Student Council for fourteen years, the members of the executive council and the legislative assembly sought to overcome communication barriers (notably the new, but largely inoperative P.A. system) by making their organization responsive to student grievances, creating an activities calendar bulletin board, and demanding better homeroom representation. To achieve this better homeroom representation a review board, chaired by Laurel Marschall, was set-up to oust those representatives who had not carried out their duties. And for the first time two workshops were held so acquaint representatives and alternates with parliamentary procedures and with their own responsibilities. Perhaps the most exciting idea for tackling the communication problem was the "Teen Time" radio program which began in February, 1966. Jerry Hough and Pixie Stevenson DJ'ed the program which reviewed A.H.S. activities, and Station WNAV gave the half-hour of Saturday morning radio time.

Overcoming student apathy was a problem of even larger scope. The Student Council felt that the more activities and services it could provide for the students, the more the students would feel a part of their school. With this idea in mind the Student Council not only sponsored the traditional Homecoming, Talent Night and the Sadie Hawkins dance and published the Student Directory, but also held the second S.C. Carnival and initiated several new projects. One of the most important innovations was the year-long clean-up campaign. Enlisting the help of all school clubs, the project proved to be an over-all success. Other new projects of importance were the Freshman Orientation Assembly, the Faculty-Sailors Basketball Game in February and the sale of underclassmen pictures. When a demonstration indicated student discontent with lack of a place to socialize in the mornings (the parking lot being off-limits), the Student Council worked with the administration to establish such an area. In this way they proved their willingness to serve the student body as a grievance committee.

As a former winner of the Bellamy Award, Annapolis High was represented by Reidar Alvestad at the ceremony to present the Pierre S. DuPont High School, Wilmington, Delaware, with the 1965 Bellamy Award. In congratulation, Reidar gave the student body a plaque of the Star Spangled Banner.

Jan and A.H.S.'s exchange student of three years ago Jean-Francois Seznec became friends when Jean returned to Annapolis.

There are many unfamiliar things I have noticed and new experiences I have had since my arrival in California at the end of July, 1965. Most noticeably the seasons reversed themselves, and we were expected to appear, white as we were, in bathing costumes to go swimming. At the San Francisco airport four of us were nearly run over by a huge car—which was being driven on the wrong side of the road! I was amazed at the number of large cars, and at seeing sixteen-year-olds driving instead of kids at least eighteen. Then I discovered my new school actually had a car park for the students (and it wasn't just used for parking cars, either!). Other things which were new to me were color T.V., drive-in restaurants (hamburgers at McDonald's), American football, Thanksgiving, Homecoming, eating crabs, and American slang. Learning how to blow bubbles with gum was my first American accomplishment.

The education system and school life in themselves were also quite different from Melbourne's. Instead of a girls' church school of 900 pupils from first to twelfth grades, at Annapolis it is impossible to get to know all the students in only the senior class. Grades are based on frequent tests, homework assignments and participation in class, instead of each course depending on one three-hour exam taken at the end of the year. And it was disappointing to find we were only given ten days vacation at Christmas, in place of two months!

All these discoveries have helped to make living here a lot of fun. I thank Annapolis High for giving me this wonderful opportunity, and I hope next year's exchange student will have a year as enjoyable as mine.

The Annapolis High School chapter of the American Field Service is both a part of a world organization and a standing committee of the Student Council. Traditionally, A.F.S. strives to promote world understanding by participating in the international exchange program: it seeks candidates for the Americans Abroad program and helps to find a home for the foreign exchange student at Annapolis High School.

This year's student, Janice Howard from Melbourne, Australia, has generated many interesting activities for A.F.S. including a reception in August to welcome her to Annapolis High and several opportunities to hear Jan speak and share her life in Australia and experiences in America. Other accomplishments for A.F.S. were raising money for the Americans Abroad scholarship fund by the sale of Christmas cards; an assembly with area A.F.S.'ers representing Thailand, England, and Brazil as well as Australia; and hosting a day in Annapolis for exchange students from the Washington area. A.F.S. hopes Annapolis will be a bus stop on the nationwide tour this summer, thus beginning an even better program next year.

A.F.S. was especially honored to see its notoriety recorded at Talent Night when "Fannie Field Service," selling Christmas cards, made her appearance.

Social Committee and Public Relations Committee

Responsible for Success of S.C. Activities

The Social Committee, a standing committee of the Student Council in charge of promoting better relations between students and faculty, proved to be an active committee this year. The members put their heads together at the beginning of school and came up with a new and different idea. They decided that instead of a student-faculty tea a student-faculty breakfast would be more effective because so many students arrived on early buses. Inspite of complications such as the bus evacuation drill on the morning of the breakfast and the theft of several boxes of donuts, the affair appeared to have accomplished its purpose—bettering relations between students and faculty—as the large turnout testified.

In addition to the breakfast the Social Committee was in charge of the annual Sadie Hawkins Dance. Decorations on the Dogpatch theme, music by the Avalons and the shotgun marriages of Marrying Sam made every couple a Daisy Mae and L'il Abner.

Who was responsible for the seemingly endless supply of posters taped to A.H.S. walls during 1965-66? Answer: the Public Relations Committee, a standing committee of the Student Council. They were responsible in two ways. First, since they were in charge of publicity for all S.C. activities, it was their job to make many of those posters. Second, it was their responsibility to approve posters that other organizations wished to put up and to remove unauthorized ones.

As the "advertising agent" for the Student Council, the Public Relations Committee was also instrumental in the increase of The Evening Capital's school news from one to six pages a week.

Audio-Visual — Lighting Squad

Service Despite Odds

When asked to give the accomplishments of this year's Audio-Visual—Lighting Squad, President Fred Belhke named "cleaning border lights and stage lofts," "realigning teasers," and "building can spotlights." Yet to most A.H.S.'ers the A.V.—L. Squad meant the spotlights at the plays they attended and the equipment present in their classrooms on the days they saw films. And it was the responsibility of the squad to provide the lighting for all assemblies and to deliver the audio-visual equipment to teachers and instruct them in its use. Working with apparatus that was often inadequate the squad displayed ingenuity and produced lighting for both school and night productions that was surprisingly professional.

Debate Team

A Beginning

This year's debating team, the first debating organization to be established in the history of Annapolis High, is still in its experimental stage. Because of its recent organization, the club limited its activities to debating among its own members and observing other schools' teams in action. As a result of the enthusiastic attitudes of this year's twenty-eight members (an unusually large number for a beginning club), prospects for next year's team are high.

A position on the Traffic Squad is not one of the most sought after jobs at A.H.S. and the members require occasional reassurance if they are to function effectively. Mr. Best, as the advisor, reminded the members of their value to the school and often complimented the squad, especially captain Tom Boyajy and 1st lieutenant Bob Neall, on their good work.

In return, Mr. Best sought increased perseverance in fighting the problems of keeping the students in the cafeterias at lunchtime, reducing the number of students leaving the grounds and enforcing the new traffic patterns.

Due to the increase in enrollment this year, the Traffic Patterns Committee headed by Mr. Rogers, found it imperative to designate one way stairways, exits, and entrances to facilitate the flow of traffic. The efforts of the Traffic Squad were responsible in part for the success of the new system.

National Honor Society

Zoo Out, Philadelphia In

Seniors Lisa Hall, Marv Darter, Mike Prendergast, Debbie Dearborn, Jeff Frazier, and Jonas Legum were inducted at mid-year in an after-school ceremony.

The Honor Society took its responsibility as a service club seriously this year and attempted to deal realistically with some of the high school's problems. In an effort to beautify the campus, they participated in cleaning the parking lot but were unsuccessful in obtaining trash cans from the city. From the money raised at bakesales, the club donated ten dollars to the library to help buy new books. The services of the Honor Society members in tutoring were in greater demand than ever before, especially from the freshman class. Almost every member tutored at least one student with some helping as many as three or four.

The fun activity of the year, replacing the traditional trip to the Washington Zoo, was a visit to Philadelphia. The planning and financing of the trip were undertaken by the members with the counsel of Miss Germont, the society's advisor.

The meetings afforded some members the opportunity to display their parliamentary skill in the game; "point of parliamentary procedure."

Assembly Committee

After the Curtains Were Hung,

Two society gentlemen scheme for a winter's lodging.

The Assembly Committee, headed by John Flood and Tom Probert, got off to a slow start because there were no curtains in the auditorium; but when curtains were obtained, they staged a variety of assemblies for the A.H.S. student body. The school year opened with the Freshman Orientation Assembly. However, the next assembly was not until Christmas when the curtains were hung. Then Dorcas Tri-Hi-Y presented Santa Had a Secret and Tamar gave their version of the O'Henry story, "The Cop and the Anthem." Shortly after Christmas the Center Stage Players from Baltimore presented excerpts from The Taming of the Shrew by Shakespeare, Our Town by Thorton Wilder, The American Dream by Edward Albee and The Lesson by Eugene Ionesco to illustrate "The Nature of Comedy." Before exams A.F.S. invited foreign exchange students from neighboring high schools to participate in a panel discussion to give A.H.S.'ers insight into their respective countries. Next Mrs. McCabe's third period Speech and Drama class produced Pyramus and Thisbe, and two weeks later Mrs. Travis' fifth period class performed Stephen Benet's The Devil and Daniel Webster.

At the beginning of March, band and scholastic letters were awarded. Then, in quick succession, came fourteen assemblies climaxed by the visit of Senator Joseph Tydings. The year was rounded out by a giant awards assembly during which awards for all boys' and girls' varsity and J.V. sports were given out.

Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y

Y's Teenagers Served Willingly.

The problems of size did not seem to impair the effectiveness of the Hi-Y's and Tri-Hi-Y's in carrying out their purpose, "to create, maintain, and extend throughout the home, school, and community high standards of Christian character."

Naphtali Hi-Y was created by combining two smaller Hi-Y's from the previous year. In contrast, Dorcas Tri-Hi-Y considered forming two Tri-Hi-Y's to accommodate the large number of girls wishing to join.

"... throughout the home ..."—Tamar Tri-Hi-Y, hoping to acquaint the mothers with the purpose and work of the club, held a mother-daughter tea.

"... school ..."—Tamar's homecoming float this year was the first for their club. Dorcas, once again aided by the Hi-Y, burned the Wicomico Indians at the stake. Santa Had a Secret and The Cop and the Anthem were presented by Dorcas and Tamar at the Christmas Assembly. Dorcas was also largely responsible for the maintenance of the activities calendar in the Severn Hall cafeteria. All the clubs participated in the clean-up campaign and often relied on the trusty bake sale as a source of revenue.

"... and community ..."—Baskets at Thanksgiving and Christmas along with caroling through the streets of Annapolis were favorite activities of all four groups. Hidden talents were revealed as Naphtali Hi-Y painted the Parole Day Care Center while Dorcas provided painting smocks for the children. Dorcas also organized a "very merry un-birthday" party for an orphanage. The Annapolis clubs again hosted Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y members from throughout Maryland during Model Legislature, April 21, 22, and 23.

As branches of the YMCA the Hi-Y's and Tri-Hi-Y's contributed to the World Service fund to aid clubs in other countries and sold YMCA mints. Finally, as fun-loving groups they played co-ed football and basketball, the boys formed a county league basketball team, and all the girl's clubs plan to spend some time in "O.C." eary this summer.

French Club and Latin Club

Jean—a guest; Greg—a host

If the sole accomplishment of this year's French Club had been to bring Jean-Francois Seznec, the exchange student from France three years ago, back to A.H.S., its existence would have been justified. At Le Cercle Francais' meeting in September Jean spoke on the history of French literature in French and answered questions not only on his talk, but also on French politics and geography. Jean had returned to Annapolis on his own to visit his old friends.

However, this was not the French Club's only activity. Also popular was a Bûche de Noel party at which members ate authentic French pastry and sang French Christmas carols.

Jean-François speaks!

Though the Latin Club had only nine members in the fall, thirty-five students were eligible for induction when March arrived. Since Sodalitas Latina is an honorary club, a "C" average had to be maintained in order to be considered for membership. The elaborate induction ceremony at President Greg Spinney's home was definitely a highlight of the year.

The club, under the direction of Mrs. Taulbee, sought to bring some dignity and awareness throughout the school to the study of Latin. Knowing that it would take more than a few years to reach this goal, the members laid a foundation by drawing up a constitution for their club. The Latin Club also observed Latin Week by displaying posters in the halls and for the second year had a booth in the S.C. Carnival.

Service Now, Preparation for Future

Although a small club, the Future Nurses of America managed to conduct food, clothing and toy drives at Thanksgiving and at Christmas for needy families. Advised by Mrs. Moore, the purpose of this club was to stimulate interest not just in nursing but also in charitable organizations.

Before the Future Teachers of America could be re-established after a one year lapse, it was necessary for fifteen students to sign a list indicating their interest. Fifteen students did sign such a list and, thus, showed that there was definite interest in teaching as a career at A.H.S. Mrs. Taulbee, who had been assigned as advisor for this organization the year before but had found no club to advise, became the sponsor of F.T.A. The club had Mrs. Malone, the sophomore guidance counselor, and Mr. Getzendanner, a psychology teacher, come and speak to the members concerning their classroom experiences. In addition, a "college corner" was set up showing the colleges that the members will attend.

The Inside Story

"Is it Miss or Mrs.?"
"Miss."
"Mrs."
"I have Mrs. They must have told me the wrong name."
"I know! Why not just say 'miz'?"
"She . . ."
"Sue, look me in the eye and tell me if it is Mrs. or Miss."
"Shouldn't we be consistent with our errors?"
"Please—tell me her name."
"I don't think she's married. Why not look her up in the phone book?"
"Look, why not just ask her?"
"Hey, Bess! Do you think both my pictures should go in the middle?"
"Don't do it that way!"
"Oh, I'll—"
"Hey, Leigh! I need a caption?"
"Bess, I'm ashamed of you!"
"Oh, dear what about the caption?"
"Hey, Kurt! You wrote 'the the' again."
"Oh, just type it."
"Shouldn't it be apostrophe 66?"
"When was this picture taken?"
"Well, what were they talking about?"
"Hey, look! My sweater matches the upholstery."
"Do you like this: 'Learning was the real business at hand'?"

Though it is difficult to believe, pandemonium such as this reigned less than twenty-four hours before the last deadline . . . with 127 pages unfinished. The WAKE's problems were not confined to before deadline rushes. With one exception the staff was unexperienced. Mr. Calendar and Miss Mehall, though they did very admirable jobs, were also new to WAKE. Two yearbook kits were lost in the mail before the staff finally received one six weeks after school started. The organization, Bess admits, "just did not exist," but the staff will remember working on WAKE 1966 as one of its "good times when we were so unhappy."

Bess tells her staff to "shape up or ship out."

A Most Ambitious Publication

For publicity purposes Lynn DeVan sets up a Perception art exhibit at the craft shop.

This year Perception, Annapolis High's literary and art annual, was perhaps the most ambitious publication at A.H.S. Lynn DeVan and her staff discovered just how difficult it was to produce a first class creative magazine without a tradition of superior publications behind them. Not only did the staff find it necessary to gather better material, they also had to organize more efficiently. By considering history, science, and language articles and by working directly with the contributors, they hoped to improve the quality of work. The organizational tangle was partially remedied by the creation of three new staff positions—secretary, business manager, and assistant editor—and by regular rather than infrequent meetings. Yet the staff realized that their improved magazine would not receive the wide reading it deserved if it were not printed professionally, so it was that the most famous, or infamous, activity of Perception stemmed from financial difficulties. To raise the funds needed for professional publishing, the staff decided to sell buttons—"Pray for snow" buttons. These "resulted" in the "blizzard of '66" and a five day vacation in the middle of exam season. They also made thirty-five dollars for the 1966 edition of Perception.

Junior Civitan

Fruitcakes Bought Flags.

The Junior Civitan Club was organized to promote good citizenship in the school and community. This year under the leadership of no-nonsense Jill Berle, the club became one of the most enterprising at A.H.S. Fruitcakes were sold to raise money for the mentally retarded children of Anne Arundel County. To aid needy families the club held a canned food drive, and for Good Will Industries they collected clothes. The club took the percentage of profit allotted to them from the sale of the fruitcakes, added it to the money they had brought in with bake sales (including a very cold one at the homecoming game) and purchased flags for A.H.S. classrooms.

Change — and Success

Tally-Ho this year presented the student body with a new look—professional printing four to six pages each issue, no lines between columns, floating banners, an abundance of advertising and once—green ink!

Behind a facade of perpetual calmness, Clark May, editor-in-chief; Alberta Morris, associate editor; and Mrs. McCabe ("perpetual calmness"!?), advisor, ran the hectic rat race of publishing the paper each month. At year's end the staff of Tally-Ho '66-67, headed by Alberta Morris, took over production. Mrs. McCabe had wisely planned that there would be plenty of experienced students on the staff once the seniors left.

Such columns as "Dear Cybele," a satire on "Dear Abby;" "Off the Top," a student editorial; and "The Tally," a round-up of scores, were initiated with the hope of keeping the student body informed and entertained.

Tally-Ho also sponsored a literary contest to stimulate and search out creative writing talent. Tally-Ho's other contest, perhaps the better-known one, was the match-the-baby-picture-to-the-teacher contest. The winner of the former received twenty dollars and the winner of the latter, an A.H.S. night shirt.

During Thanksgiving vacation Alberta, accompanied by Mrs. McCabe, represented Annapolis High at the National Scholastic Press Association Convention in Chicago.

Boys' "A" Club

A Time for Revenge

Due to an increase in membership the Boys' Athletic Club lacked unity and group spirit. Yet the Homecoming Dance, sponsored by both Boys' and Girls' "A" Clubs, was a great success. Among other club enterprises were the building and cleaning-up of the homecoming bonfire, participation in the clean-up campaign, and, best of all, playing the faculty in the Student-Faculty Basketball Game. Finally, a chance for revenge! The Boys' "A" Club did not lack individual spirit.

Girls Bought New Uniforms.

Although this year's membership was considerably smaller than in recent years, the Girls' "A" Club maintained almost all of its former activities. The profits received from the Homecoming Dance, which they co-sponsored along with the Boys' "A" Club, and the sale of Panther sweatshirts were used to purchase new uniforms and equipment for the softball team and new uniforms for the volleyball team. For fun the girls went to the Balitmore Civic Center and saw the Clippers tie the Hershey, Pennsylvania team in ice hockey. There they were lucky enough to be given two hockey sticks even though they were not holders of the right color tickets!

The Girls' "A" Club joined with the Booster Club to decorate for the Homecoming Dance.

Booster Club

Pennants, Pompoms, and Pencils for Stadium

The Booster Club, under the supervision of President Madeline Rubin and the advisor, Mr. Pinti, was the spirit behind A.H.S. in 1965-66. With the provision of buses to away games, the colorful posters put up in the halls to publicize sports events, and the innovation of a special pep squad to cheer at games, the club helped to keep alive the enthusiasm of Annapolis students. By continuing the tradition of Penny Day; running concession stands at home games; selling A.H.S. pennants, beanies, pompoms and pencils; the Boosters became a supporting element in the construction and payment of Panther Stadium. And, of course, Homecoming was its usual success with the Booster Club's float for the queen and her court being as lovely as ever.

Cheerleaders

Spirit Plus

The best known groups at A.H.S. this year were probably the varsity and J.V. cheerleaders. However, few people realize what has been the inspiration for and what has influenced these girls—a sincere enthusiasm for all the teams, the name of their school and the student body. And, of even greater importance in understanding what has allowed them to do such an outstanding job of promoting school spirit, were the personal friendships developed among the girls through hard work and long hours, association with the teams and the coaches, and the refreshing and understanding leadership of their new advisor, Miss Carmichael.

At homecoming time the cheerleaders trim the goal posts

MARCHING BAND

Marching Band

First Year in New Stadium.

JIMMY PAXTON
Drum Major

In 1965, the size of the marching band doubled due to the compulsory membership for all band members. With its increased numbers and crowd-pleasing arrangements of "The Saints Go Marching In" and "Joshua," the band was able to win over its audience more than in any previous year. Though they sometimes lacked timing and co-ordination in their routines, they more than made up for it in enthusiasm. Led by drum major Jimmy Paxton, the band was able to create a great deal of school spirit at pep rallies and football games. Even some of the football players said that they felt better knowing the band was in the stands spurring them on.

This year the band also expanded its activities. With the creation of the Annapolis Sailors professional football team, they hired themselves out to this club to full the void in half-time periods. Crowd reactions here again was favorable, showing that this year's marching band was eminently successful.

ANNAPOLIS HIGH SCHOOL CONCERT BAND

Concert Band and Orchestra

Performances Well-Played

Suffering a post-World's Fair trip letdown, the concert band lost several of its members to six majors and to the Wake staff. However, a large enough number of good instrumentalists were left to form the nucleus of a good band. In spite of their occasional lack of discipline, the members of the concert band did perform their difficult music well.

The orchestra, suffering from its annual problem of small size, was still able to perform music taken from the files of the Annapolis Civic Orchestra. In fact several of its members were also members of the civic symphony. Their performances, more numerous than those of the band, were also somewhat more professional.

As usual the most aggravating problem for both groups was M-O-N-E-Y. The band and orchestra held their annual candy sale in October and the Adult Band Booster Club, organized last year to help finance the band's trip, continued their financial support.

Their Own Cantata

The perspective all-state musician faces stiff competition. He must pass both county and state level contests for All-State Band or Orchestra. For All-State Chorus he must succeed on both school and local levels.

Thirteen students from Annapolis High (four more than last year) this year won positions in the three all-state musical organizations: four in All-State Band, three in All-State Chorus, and six in All-State Orchestra. Performing for the centennial meeting of the Maryland State Teachers' Association, the students were honored to premiere compositions written especially for them, notably a cantata combining the chorus, band, and orchestra.

Nancy — I thought I'd write in blue since blue is my favorite color. Boy, Susan sure doesn't leave people much room. This year has really been hazardess what with Priscella — never mind the spelling — and basketball, softball, and locker room battles — don't forget the bus trips to other schools. Next year should be even worse especially when you and Susan and I will be on all the same teams, that is, if we have teams. Nothing could be better than varsity no matter how good an intramural might be. To be continued at a later date —

(Changing Ink Not By Choice) I wonder about you sometimes — Susan's having an effect on you. Best of Luck Always, Till Next Year. It's going to be good,

Soccer

Booters Painted Coach's

"Why don't they listen to the theory," mutters Coach Rogers.

Soccer ballet.

When Mr. Rogers came out of retirement to rescue the soccer team from its coachless plight, there was but one week before the season opened. The team therefore plunged into the county rounds cold, losing its first three games. The third game was a shocker. It was played at Arundel during an electrical storm on a huge muddy field complete with tire ruts in front of one goal. With gathering weight the Panthers showed their true potential by winning four games in a row. Then, however, the booters faultered and fell, tying and losing the next two games. Rallying for the final game, Annapolis defeated Charlotte Hall to finish with a winning season.

Inspiring the team were the three pretty managers; Puddy Glendinning, Sarah Wood, and Carol Sayre. Some credit should go, however, to Lou Parker, the not-so-pretty manager who handled the locker room duties, which Mr. Rogers did not feel should be delegated to the female managers.

The team, in order to repay Coach Rogers for time and effort spent during the season, volunteered to paint his house. The yellow paint flowed freely.

Skepticism and tension show on the faces of Coaches Laramore and Ballas at the homecoming game.

Smashing Wicomico in the homecoming game brought the Panthers to the height of their '65 season. With a record of 5-2 thus far the gridders were still undefeated in Panther Stadium. The win over Wicomico was the first Annapolis victory in a homecoming game in three years. From that point on the season went downhill—the Panthers lost the final three games of the ten game schedule.

Despite the fact that Annapolis finished with a 5-5 season, they were feared as the hardest hitting team in the county. The team was forced to play the "three yards and a cloud of dust" brand of football as it did not have an experienced passer to quarterback. Thus a premium was placed on the teamwork of the interior linemen and the running backs.

Though teamwork was stressed, individual ability was not overshadowed: Mike Corbett, Charlie Schuette, Jerry Wilson, and Joe Alton each placed on the All-County Team.

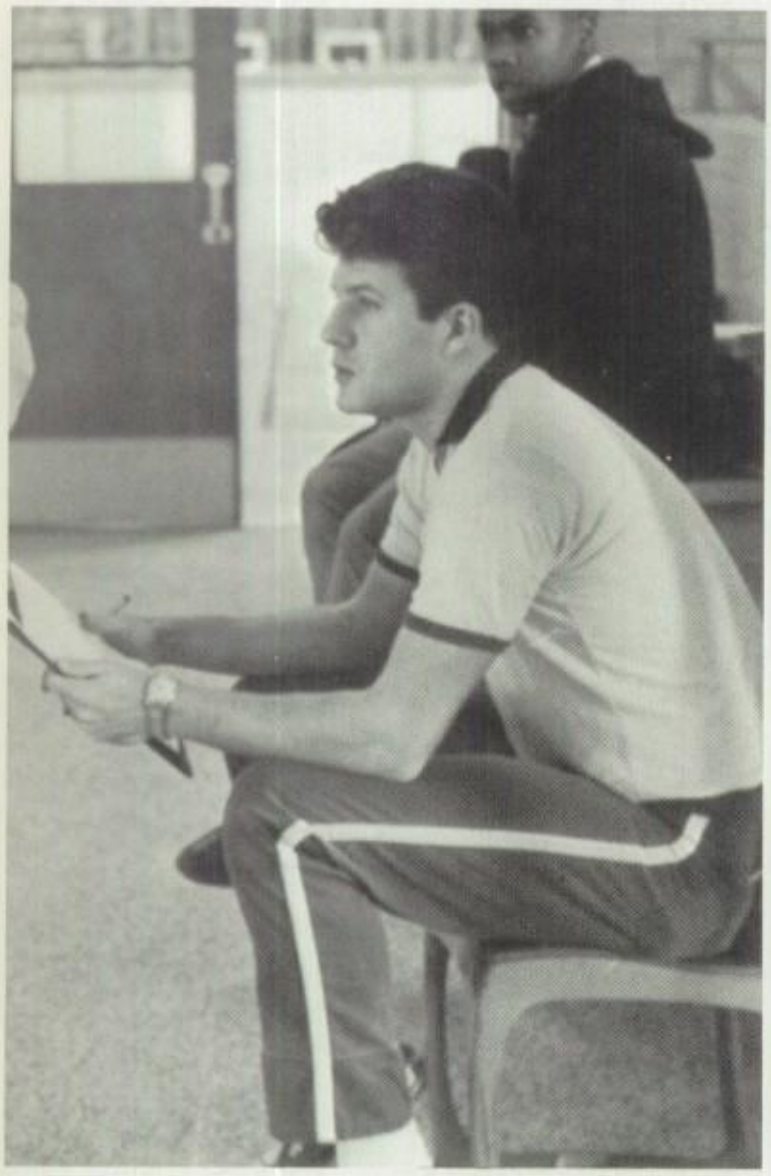
Defense Strong: Four Shutouts



COACH VALENTINE

Paced by the running of Kelsey Mackel and Kirby McKinney, the J.V. Panther's offense averaged over two touchdowns a game. The defense held the opponents scoreless and only once allowed more than one touchdown. The successful coupling of offense and defense resulted in a strong team which lost only two games. Near the end of the seasons, the varsity coach, recognizing the potential of the J.V. Players, pirated them; thus depriving the J.V. of some of its best players. This apparently did not destory the effectiveness of the team for it shut out its last three opponents.

Powder Puff Football

A Three-Game Season

The three games of the schedule for the '65 team, were two more than the Annapolis Powder Puff football team had ever played. Traditionally, the girls had a single game season with St. Mary's for the city championship. This year, they faced Glen Burnie twice and Severna Park once.

It would be difficult to choose a league champion because most of the games ended in a tie. However, Annapolis, with an undefeated record, certainly has as good a claim on the league title as anyone. Therefore, the girls should be commended on their championship performance.

Take a good long look at this picture Nance - it's the only one I'm in, in which I'm smiling -  You have lots of potential in athletics and when thinking of colleges, how 'bout looking into Ursinus, Collegeville, Pa. Sorry I wasn't a better B-Ball captain and -Club member Jill

Girls Solved Field Problem.

The fence which encloses Panther Stadium runs across the middle of the old hockey field. This would have complicated play so the team decided to move to the front of Severn Hall. Undisturbed by the lack of space, they proceeded to set up a square field. Playing there did not phase the girls: the shorter the field—the less running.

The field problem was apparently the girls' toughest one, since they did not lose a single game. This was their third consecutive undefeated season.

The season was as short as the field; the girls played three out of five games on one day. During this "Sports Day" at Northeast, the Pantherettes were accused of playing unnecessarily rough, but the girls were merely playing to win —and they did.

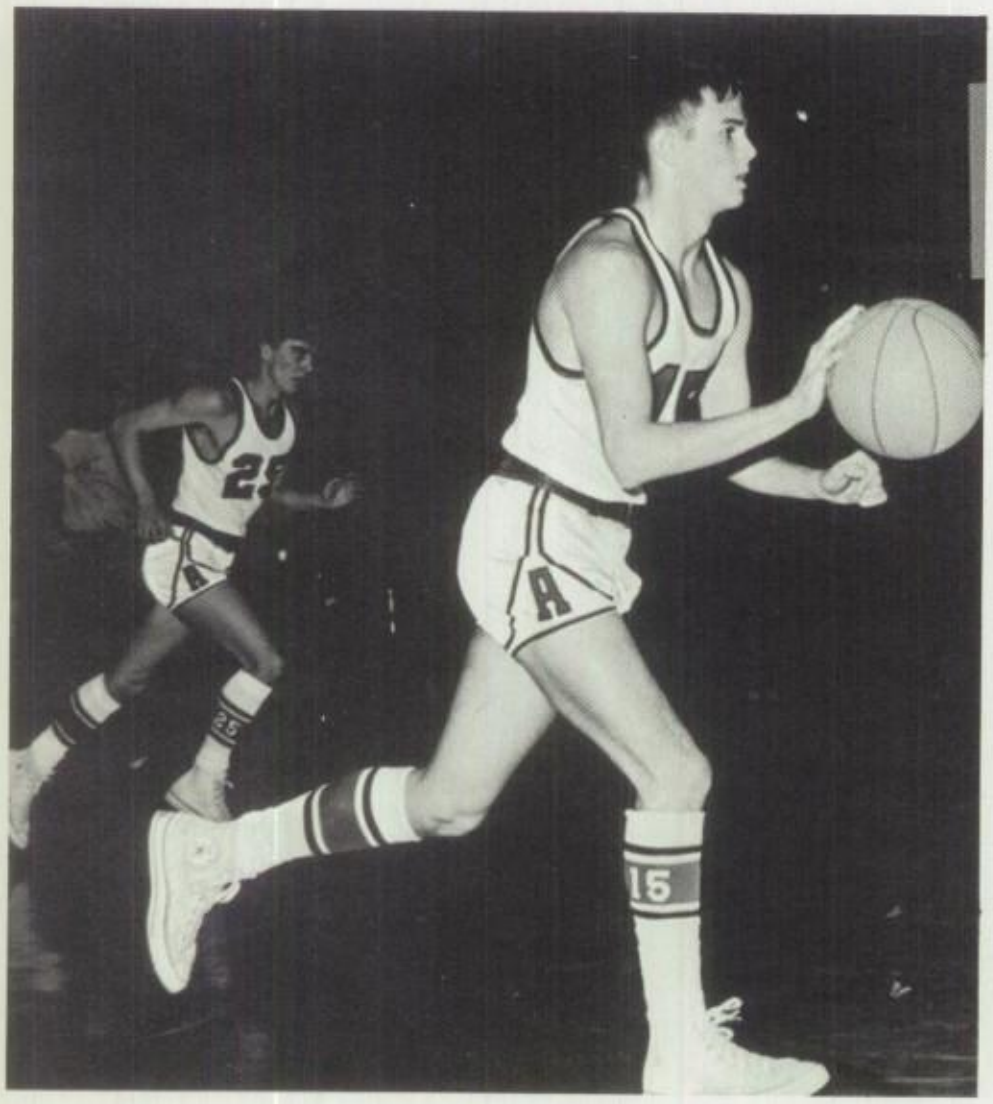
Basketball

Running Panthers Successfully



Dave Hart dribbles down court.

An exciting basketball season was climaxed in its final game when Annapolis and Brooklyn Park met to decide the county championship. Tension during this game mounted to the point where fans nearly came to blows over whose signs would go where. The chant, "We're number one" echoed from both sides of the gym. Then Panther patriots countered with "you're number two." Unfortunately, it didn't turn out that way. Brooklyn Park beat Annapolis to tie for the county title: both teams were number one.

In reaching this climax, the 1966 Varsity basketball team became the most successful team in A.H.S. history. The "Running Panthers" chalked up eighteen victories, the most games ever won by a Panther team in one season. They scored all time highs of 106 points in a single game and 1618 points during the season. The team average of 80.9 points per game was twenty points higher than that of the opponents.

It is interesting to note that there were only five seniors on the entire team. Therefore, despite the fact that three of these were starters and another, a top substitute, the outlook for next year's season is excellent.

A coach is more than a coach.

The fired-up Pantherettes were set to whip Andover in their return match (Annapolis had lost the first 17-31), but they never had the chance. First the game was postponed because of a flat tire on the Andover team bus. Then it was cancelled—the referees never showed up.

As for the rest of the season, the girls were 4—2. Jill Berle's average of 12.8 points per game led the team which averaged 30.3 points. Sheryl Moulden stretched to gain the most rebounds with Carol Quass and Diane Francey close behind.

Hopefully next year, with some returning talent, the team will be worthy of the good old maroon and blue.

Hot potato!

Jeff Morgan, standing at the foul line, sank the ball twice to provide the Panther's margin of victory. These were merely two of his 408 points that season—an all time scoring record for any Panther in any sport, varsity or J.V. for a single season.

After a slow start which saw the J.V.'s become the first J.V. Panther B-ball team ever to lose two games in a row, the junior Panthers went on to win twelve of their last thirteen games.

Captains Jeff Morgan and Tom Beech, our ace rebounders, will definitely be welcome, as will many J.V. players, on the varsity next year.

Wrestling

Inexperienced Team Won

Captains Jim Gray and Bob Speaks.

It is a trying thing for a team to lose most of its matches. The Panthers practiced as hard as any team they played, but success usually eluded them.

Historically, A.H.S. has been one of the best wrestling schools in the state. This year, the team's 2—6 record did not place it on a level with its glorious predecessors, but the Panthers did show spirit and individual talent.

Bob Speaks, captain of the team, along with Jim Gray, was undefeated throughout the season. He showed the enthusiasm of the true sportsman by losing fifteen pounds so that he could wrestle a Glen Burnie matman who had been undefeated in three years. He won this match, snapping the opposing wrestler's winning streak and extending his own.

The Panthers were an inexperienced team which may have accounted for more of their losses. Many of the wrestlers will be back next year, perhaps to return the team to its former status.

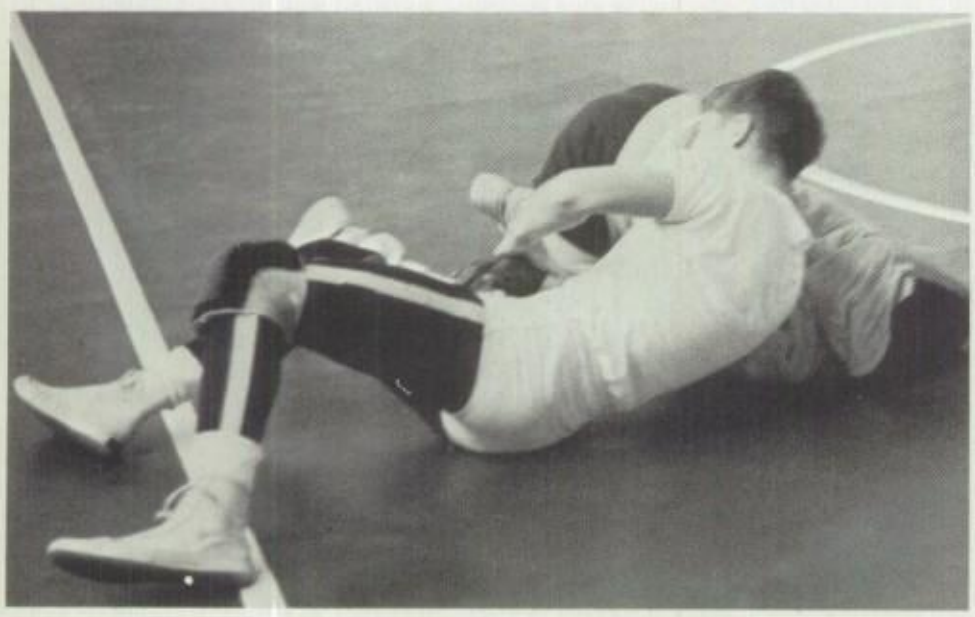
The success of a J.V. team is not measured by its win—loss record, but by the number of players it places on varsity the following year. However, the J.V. wrestlers' 5—2 record which far surpassed that of the varsity could be a fair indication of the potential for next year.

The team "held its own" over the season, losing only one match in county competition—a close decision at Severna Park. Severna Park remained undefeated throughout the season, so Annapolis finished as a close second, but the Panthers "try harder".



A reversal.

Arch-rival Severna Park won the county championship. Annapolis beat Severna Park twice, losing to them only once. The one time was, unfortunately, the county meet. The second place Panthers, did, however, set 11 school and 2 county records so that the season proved quite successful.

How the team members managed to stay in shape was a mystery, as everyone tripped on the pole vault poles, which rolled in the aisles of the bus during trips to away meets.

Jim Arnold, captain, the most valuable player, the big scorer, and anchor man on one of the record-setting relay teams, set records in both the 100 yard and 200 yard dashes.

Team effort was an important factor to the success of the team. This was demonstrated by the relay teams which set all three school relay records and one county record.

Than in Past Five Years.

Finishing with a 10-7 record, the baseball team proved one of the best at A.H.S. in recent years. Not since 1959 had the team won 10 games.

Pitching was a strength of the team. Doug Ward pitched 3 shutouts, including 2 no-hitters. Dan Bowler and Jim Chase each blanked an opposing team to bring the team total to 5 shutouts in a single season—a school record.

The panther has been the mascot of every A.H.S. team except the '65 baseball team. That team's mascot was a mouse that scurried around the locker room before each home game.

The season was climaxed when on the last play of the season, Alan Harris tackled the Severna Park second baseman on an attempted steal.

Softball

Girls Ended With Split Season.

Hitting was obviously the strength of the '65 softball team as they scored 137 runs in 10 games for an average of 13.7 runs per game. Unfortunately, the opponents also could hit the ball. They scored 138 runs over the season for a 13.8 runs per game average.

32 runs was the highest score tallied by the Panther softball team in a single game while the opponents were held to no more than a mere 29 runs a game.

The team members self-admittedly did not practice very hard, but they did have a good time—not only practicing but playing. Thus, the 5-5 record did not show the true potential of the team.

Volleyball

County Champs Again

One of the most successful teams in A.H.S. history has been the volleyball team. In the past years it had won two county championships and three second place titles. On the road to such glory, the team had an overall record of thirty victories against only four losses, with two undefeated seasons.

The 1965 team carried on the winning tradition by again controlling the county championship with a record of ten wins and two losses. With the outstanding performances of Sallie Ives, Tina Griffin, Sheryl Moulden, and Regina Brown plus the excellent effort of their fellow teammates, the 1965 volleyball team proved itself worthy of the standards set by its predecessors.

COACH WOLFE.

April 23, 1965 was a black day in the history of the Annapolis High Lacrosse Team. On this dreary, overcast day the Panthers played long and hard only to tie St. Mary's in double over time. This unlucky 13-13 tie marked the end of a record 38 game winning streak accumulated by the stickmen.

Before this tie, the Panthers had won 4 games including a shutout of Perry Hall. This 4-0 shutout was the 1st by the stickmen in 4 years.

The team then found the going rough, losing 3 of the next 5 games. They did, however, leave the '66 team with a 1 game winning streak to build on.

Leading the scoring was junior Dave Roberts. Roberts' 23 goals was the 3rd highest total ever tallied by a Panther in one season. Captain Charles Coker added 14.

THE UNITED STATES NAVAL INSTITUTE

The United States Naval Institute, which has as its mission the advancement of professional, literary, and scientific knowledge in the Navy, extends a hearty "Well Done!" to Principal Fowbbe and the members of his staff and faculty for their fine work in preparing the members of the Class of 1966 of Annapolis High School to go forth and become productive members of our free society.

To you, the individual members of the graduating class, we offer our warm congratulations and our strong encouragement to continue your intellectual growth and active participation in the affairs of your school, your church, your community, your state, and your country—to the end that our society may remain free.

Nancy,
Even though this is the 1ST YEAR I'VE known you, I think that you are one of the nicest girls I know. Keep up your sports & someday you'll really be proud of your accomplishments! It has certainly been a pleasure competing(?) with you all year. Good luck in everything you do! Keep up the good work & Hope to see you next year!!

Connie

Oh, the good times when we were so unhappy!

Acknowledgements

On this, the final page of WAKE 1966, I have a tendency to shout hallelujahs and gush gratitude. However, I believe it will be more in the spirit of those people I wish to thank if I list them simply:

Mr. Harry Calendar, WAKE's financial advisor
Mr. Robert McKorkle, photographer
Mr. M. E. Warren, photographer
Mr. Johnson of Johnsons, Inc., Annapolis
Judy Anderegg, unofficial assistant sports editor, and Lisa Hall, Jamie Burr, Ralph Strohl and Anne Webb—all talents extra-ordinaire
Mr. Pete Miller, Taylor Publishing Company's representative
Mrs. Kern, Mr. Stauffer, Mr. Rogers, and Mr. Page, especially helpful A.H.S. teachers
Mrs. McCabe, advisor to Tally-Ho
The patient parents of my staff members
The forgiving staff members themselves
And Miss Susan Mehall, advisor, confidante and friend.
